Permit for Beach Hotel Has Been Requested

Next Tuesday, it is asserted, Mrs. Lotta A. Shipley will make application to the city board of trustees for a permit to construct a hotel building at the southwest corner of San Antonio street and Ocean avenue.

[illegible] specifications will be ready to submit to the board not later than ninety days from this date.

The application will state that the proposed structure is to be of the Colonial Spanish type and will cost not less $250,000, and will be modern in every respect, and, say the promoters, [illegible] to the city.

This will be the first application to be filed here for a beach tourist hotel but two more, it is reported, are anticipated.

Theatre Packed for Dickens Party

For the fourth time in as many years the Dickens party, under the auspices of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts, was successfully held last Friday evening.

Carmel has had splendid Dickens parties before, but nothing near as interesting and complete as this one.

The program opened with the parade of the characters, in old-fashioned attire, down the center aisle of the theatre to the stage. There was David Copperfield, Nicholas Nickleby, Mr. and Mrs. Squeers, Sairy Gamp, Mrs. Hunter, Smike, Mrs. Jarley, the Infant Phenomenon, and others, including a large number of Dickens children, and they made a fine picture when they assembled on the stage.

One of the hits of the evening was Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works, conducted by Perry Newberry. J. W. Haud was George Washington; Mrs. Mellie Brewer, Lady Macbeth; Guy Koepp, orchestra leader Coleman; Richard Hoagland, Mayor of Carmel, and Mrs. Percy Parkes was welcomed back to the stage in a dancing act, as the French dolls.

Another good number was the singing of Mrs. Allen Emory and Miss Jessie White.

There was a large, appreciative audience, many of whom afterward attended the dance in the old hall.

Save the Training Camp For the Monterey Peninsula

THE residents and business concerns of Carmel, together with the people of other peninsula cities, are asked to contribute toward an $18,000 fund being raised to insure the erection of a clubhouse for the Citizens' Military Training Camp.

This year the camp will include also the Officers' Reserve Corps, the California and Oregon National Guard.

There is imminent danger of losing for all time this camp on the Monterey Peninsula unless the money is raised. Five other cities are bidding for this annual affair.

The families and friends of the camp attendants come here every year in large numbers. They live here for two or three months every year, attend the social and theatrical affairs of the three cities, and are altogether much worth while in our midst.

Fourteen thousand dollars of the amount has been subscribed. Four thousand more is needed BY TONIGHT.

Local Boy Scout Troop Presented With Pennant

Fourteen ago a boy scout patrol was organized in Carmel by an officer of the Monterey Presidio. A summer camp was held at Pebble Beach by the scouts of the peninsula and Carmel won in all the competitions, and also had the distinction of maintaining the cleanest and most orderly camp. They received as their reward a twelve-foot pennant.

When the troop was disbanded, the scout leader, Haskell Warren took possession of the pennant. He is ready to hand it over to the present local organization.

At the regular meeting of the Boys' Club on April 2 the scouts were invited to be present. All had been, or are members of the club, so they felt at home.

After playing games, the scouts lined up, gave the salute to the flag, followed by the scout oath. They were then seated, and the pennant was presented by Mr. Warren, who is a scout leader in Oakland.

Recently the club was favored with a talk by Mme. French Sheldon, explorer, lecturer, author. The lady was invited to address the club again.

Free in Charge of Immigration Bill

Congressman Arthur M. Free of this district has been designated by the chairman of the immigration committee of the House of Representatives to present to the house the features of the new immigration bill dealing with exclusion of orientals from the United States. Mr. Free has long been a student of this subject and the chairman of the committee, recognizing this fact, has delegated this very important duty to him.

Glenn Hughes of the English department of the University of Washington was married last week at Seattle. The bride is Miss Babette Plechner. Hughes it was, while attending Stanford university, who put on the first production of "The Piper" at our Forest Theatre.

Golden Bough-U. C. Extension Course

The University of California extension division has issued and widely distributed the following circular:

Carmel, the home of the highest intellectual and artistic endeavor in California, is to benefit by several interesting courses which are to be given under the auspices of the University of California extension division during the period of June 30 to August 8 at the Theatre of the Golden Bough.

Dr. Carol Aronovici, writer on social problems and city planning expert, will give courses in "Immigration and Americanization," "Aspects of Social Progress," "Immigrant Backgrounds" and "The American City."

"Short Story Writing" and "Photoplay Writing" will be conducted by Eric Howard, photoplay writer and former editor of Munsey's Magazine.

Beulah Morrison, Ph. D., will conduct courses in "Psychology of Teaching" and "Mental Tests and Measurements."

Blanding Sloan, well known New York artist, etcher, painter and theatrical director, will give three courses in "The Theory and Practice of Painting and Design" and "The Theory and Practice of Design with Special Reference to the Theatre and Etching."

The courses which these able instructors are to conduct are given in response to the desire expressed by the residents of Carmel for just such work, and have been chosen with a view to meeting a wide diversity of intellectual needs and artistic tastes.

The period over which the classes are to be held will be divided into two sessions of three weeks each. Students may register for one or both sessions. One unit of university credit will be granted upon the successful completion of each fifteen hours of instruction.

Title to Property Settled by Court

Earl Percy Parkes and his wife, Jeannette Hoagland Parkes, now have clear title to Lot 15 in the block wherein the postoffice is located in this city, in accordance to a decision handed down on Friday of last week by Judge J. A. Bardin of the superior court.

The defendant in the action was T. W. Morgan Jr., who had previously filed a claim to the property, and this brought about the Parkes suit.

Attorneys for the Parkes were Silas W. Mack and Treat & Campbell, and for Mr. Morgan, Chas. [illegible]

Death Takes Son of Old Resident

There passed away last Sunday in Oakland Lee L. Gray, son of Mrs John D. Gray, pioneer resident of this city.

Mr. Gray was a native of Syracuse, N. Y., where he was born 54 years ago. With his parents he came to California when a youth, and early showed a fine aptitude for a business career. At the time of his death he was an official of the California Raisin Growers' Association.

Lee Gray spent so much of his time in and about Carmel that he was almost regarded as a Carmelite. Those who knew him loved him. His outstanding characteristic was his love for his fellow man.

Deceased was a prominent Mason.

A wife and daughter survive him. Other relatives are DeWitt Gray, his brother, and Mrs. Mable Gray Young, his sister. His aunts are Mrs. M. L. Hamlin, Mrs. J. S. Snow and Mrs. W. Bevan.

Card Party to Be Big Social Event

The bridge and mah jongg party to be given at Pine Inn on Friday evening, April 25, promises to be a brilliant affair, many tables having been engaged. Cards and score pads will be provided.

Prizes that are really worth while will be awarded to each table. Light refreshments will be served.

The committee in charge would appreciate it if those desiring to play will telephone or write, either to Mrs. J. B. Jordan, Pine Inn, or to Mrs. C. H. Yates, Phone 914 W2.

The proceeds will go toward the Carmel branch of the Human Society.

Pasadena Citizens Approve Zoning

Pasadena is well satisfied with zoning and her present building schedule shows that the adoption of the zoning law has in no way had a detrimental effect upon the progress of construction, according to C. M. Glover, who recently returned from a trip to the southern city. Mr. Glover stated that in his talks with property owners, business men, bankers and realtors, he found only favorable comment on zoning. It was pointed out by one man, he stated, that zoning has curtailed speculation in property and given it a stabilized value which has proved of universal benefit to the city as a whole.

OZONE ON ZONING PLAN

Shand Argument Not Convincing

By Perry Newberry

For the protestants against the Zoning Ordinance, Arthur T. Shand has made the argument on the sample ballot, setting forth in its preamble the already exploded petition of "Three hundred and sixty-seven of our electors and taxpayers." That petition is on file, a matter of record. The names may be checked against the registration list, and against the assessment roll. Eighty-three of the 367 are not taxpayers, and 105 of them are not electors. As there are 1088 different individual taxpayers in the city, and 556 names on the polling list, the absolute insufficiency of this petition is immediately apparent, for it was only 25 per cent of the taxpayers, and but 46 per cent of the registered vote. That the ordinance was "arbitrarily passed" over such a protest, and passed to a referendum of all the electors, at a regular election, as is provided by our laws, cannot be considered an argument against the Zoning Ordinance.

And Arthur T. Shand continues the argument, saying that the ordinance is "unjust, confiscatory and discriminating," but he does not say how, why, or [illegible] unjustness, confiscation, or discrimination is quoted. The next argument, that it "arbitrarily divides blocks, thus rendering useless many lots," must be considered as mere words, for how can lots be rendered useless? If they are cut out of the business zone, they must be useful in either the hotel zone or residence zone. And wherever the boundary line of a zone is brought, there is the friction between properties that are in and out of that zone. Perhaps Mr. Shand means that the zone lines should be always along streets; but is that not just as "arbitrary"? On one side of the street, business blocks; on the other, residences, which must look out upon the store buildings.

The next argument is that a monopoly is created for present hotels, and no adequate site offered for any future hotel. There are 23 blocks open to hotels of the future, some of them almost perfect hotel sites. Two hotels are right now being considered, both of them within the zone. Upon these twenty-three blocks, hotels could be constructed to take care of a city of half a million people.

Then comes the argument, answered over and over, that it "prohibits earning a livelihood in one's own residence." It doesn't, and it couldn't possibly, no matter who says that it does. If you are one of those who fear that you may not rent rooms or take in boarders, sell flowers that you grow, keep chickens or poultry, may not do dressmaking, or weave rugs or fabrics, or serve meals for pay, or sell old furniture or new blankets in your home, send this ordinance to any attorney that you trust and abide by his decision.

Then Mr. Shand tells us that "it renders useless" 140 or more lots in the residence district. He doesn't go into details, but we know that he refers to the 25-foot lots on Junipero and the upper end of Ocean avenue, and to the wedge-shaped lots in the northern quarter of the city. As all of these lots—except two—are owned in larger fractions than the 4000 square feet of the ordinance limit, they are not rendered useless in any respect. The ordinance will prevent the owners of these plots cutting them up into fragments and plastering houses and shacks tight up against each other; just as it will prevent me from selling 20 feet off my 40-foot lot to building another house upon. But how can the ordinance hurt the owners otherwise? If a man has a piece of land 50 by 100 feet, he can put his house upon it, and he is certainly better off than the man who has his home on a 40 by 100-foot lot.

Next is the argument that the Board of Trustees is given "autocratic power" to place public buildings on the beach, or anywhere they may determine. Shouldn't they be given this power? Should we make an ordinance that would prohibit the trustees from rebuilding the bath-house, for instance? Or from building a fire-house wherever needed? Of course not, especially as the people always have the power, under law, to determine by initiative or referendum whether this power is "autocratic." You can't build a public building without an ordinance; and every ordinance may be brought to a referendum vote; even we may recall the trustees if they should get too "autocratic."

The last argument goes back again to the preamble: "You, the people, have signified by protest that you do not want this ordinance." Have we? Not until next Monday, April 14, when we go to the polls, will we signify whether we do or do not want this ordinance. The ordinance is there on the ballot; if you want it, place a cross alongside YES.

Residence District Butt of Zoning Ordinance

By Maude Isabel Hogle

Conjecture and innuendo do not make an argument for or against the Zoning Ordinance. Swiveling around on an "if" does not make fact of that which is only true "if rumor is true."

It was my privilege to live in Carmel before Mr. Beardsley arrived here weary of foot and seeking escape from progress.

I well remember the fight which he and Perry Newberry put up for incorporation. Were they for it? They were, with all their usual force. Then, as now, they had much to say against the people who differed with them. Good roads and sewers were their slogan. I thought it would be cheaper to buy the roads and the sewers and let Carmel remain as it was. But Mr. Beardsley and Mr. Newberry thought I should not be allowed to say so. They won, and we became a city of the sixth class.

Now I would like to ask, when a number of property owners of Carmel, at present living elsewhere, and without any notification, lost their properties to the city on Ocean avenue assessments, for the sums of forty, thirty and twenty cents and the like, did Mr. Beardsley or Mr. Newberry take any notice of the matter or did they lift a finger to help the owners redeem these properties?

What about the public spirit of men who worked for incorporation and have ever since tried to discredit the work of all who are engaged in the business of the town?

Mr. Beardsley says, "All that has been said in favor of a modern, artistic and dignified hotel is camouflage of self-interest." This means that he does not want a new hotel. His self-interest he plainly states is in keeping Carmel exactly as it is now. No allowance for growth in this, and an impossibility with a living community. Cemeteries are the only things that stand still.

Mr. Beardsley finds unjustifiable the self-interest of the people whose property has been seriously injured by this zoning ordinance, where blocks have been split in forming the zones, and individual business properties divided, leaving part in one zone, and part in another.

He says, further, "The twenty-five foot lot conflict with the zoning may be dismissed with the statement that there are but two of these owned as single lots, the rest are in groups of two or more." But this is not true, nor is it to the point. Single ownership of lots has nothing to do with the question. These lots are platted and recorded as twenty-five foot lots, and the State of California stands back of the deeds to them. The legal status is the same, no matter what the number of lots owned by any individual; and even zoning experts admit that this partciular section of the ordinance is not zoning, but confiscation.

Mr. Beardsley continues: "Does any one suppose that any Board of Trustees is going to meddle with the wedge-shaped lots or irregular shaped lots that are situate for the most part on curved streets that have forty or more feet front, and thirty-five foot backs, simply because they are of a little less area than those forty feet wide all the way through?" "Certainly they do!" (in the zoning catechism parlance).

Again he says: "The shape and area of these lots were settled before ever the town was incorporated. The silliness of the contention is its own answer." But I have to remind Mr. Beardsley that the twenty-five foot lots were platted before the wedge-shaped lots were thought of, and the area demanded by this ordinance for a building site is forty by one hundred feet or its equivalent, which is exactly four thousand square feet.

There is no saving clause to explain that the council may wink at a violation of this specific restriction in one case, and deprive a man of the use of his property in another.

"As for the matter of weaving, gardening, taking roomers or boarders in private houses, etc.," Mr. Beardsley says, "these have been answered fully in the columns of this paper. The zoning ordinance does not apply."

I am afraid that the people who answered these questions in the zoning catechism mislaid the ordinance. All of the above mentioned matters are discussed by him as "avocations" and not as [illegible]. The ordinance is not defining avocations; it is defining business occupations which may or may not be carried on in the residence district, and it limits these occupations definitely.

In my article I deal specifically with shops such as "The Seven Arts," "Ye Olde Shop" and the possibility of other such business enterprises in the residential district in the future. These are unmistakably prohibited by Ordinance No. 55.

Great anxiety is shown in Mr. Beardsley's article for the protection of the residence district; yet the finest part of our present residence district, built up with expensive homes, is made the butt of the zoning ordinance. Here apartment houses may soar to heaven unrestrained by any building restriction; hotels of the city type built high to economise space, may destroy the view and denude the property of trees.

Now we come to that portion of Mr. Beardsley's article referring to the real estate agents. He says, "Their self interest is against the zoning." If the zoning ordinance is sustained by the referendum vote, my own property at Seventh and Lincoln streets would double in value. But I should have to remove from my selling list the properties of many people who own lots that do not measure up to the requirements of the ordinance for building purposes. Nearly three hundred lots are affected by this ordinance. A certificate of title to any one of these lots does not assure the right of the owner to improve it with a residence. It does not protect me as an agent in offering this property for sale; therefore I must remove these lots from my listings, because the interest of owners and agents, in any restriction or control of real estate, is, and must be, identical.

A large part of the remainder of Mr. Beardsley's article is mere conjecture, without foundation in fact. It reads as follows: "Owners of beach property will get residence area prices for forty-foot lots if the ordinance is confirmed. If the ordinance is not confirmed, then they get the advanced price for the large area as a whole and an immediate sale"—then comes the slip—"if rumor is true." Also, "after the sale is accomplished, the former owners, directly or after a time, will move away." Is he in the confidence of these owners? Does he know anything of the details respecting the disposition of these properties? I doubt it, for he says, "It is a hundred to one that an outside architect will draw the plans for the new hotel" while, even now, as a matter of fact, an architect resident in Carmel is formulating plans for the proposed hotel of the Spanish-Colonial type.

Mr. Beardsley adds, "It is quite certain that outside men will be brought in to do the work," but by this time we are sure that he is guessing. "Zoning," he tells us, "is no new fad."

Justices Houser, Conrey and Curtis of the District Court of Appeals of Los Angeles, say in a recent decision, "The attempted exercise by states and by municipalities, acting under state authority, of the power to control and direct the location of industries in cities, by general ordinahce commonly known as zoning ordinances, is comparatively new"—and further that inadopting an ordinance of this kind the council "shall give reasonable consideration, among other things, to the character of the district, its peculiar suitability for particular uses, the conservation of property values and the direction of building de-

Statement of Belief

We believe that Carmel's financial and sentimental value lies in its beauty and simplicity and uniqueness, the character of its residents and the creative work done here.

We believe that safe and passable roads can be built that will be picturesque and inexpensive.

We believe that during the next few years the new municipal administration will control a large expenditure of public funds and that experienced and competent business men should be chosen to direct it.

We believe that the ZONING ORDINANCE is a step in the right direction and, if elected, we will administer it or amend it so that injustice is done to no one.

We believe in preserving our trees and our beaches; we believe that by so doing the prosperity of Carmel is assured.

We believe that the interests of the town demand a harmonious and united board, and to that end we are announcing ourselves as candidates for the coming election.

City Election News

There will be about 525 votes cast in the city election, the largest vote ever cast in Carmel.

City Clerk Saidee Van Brower was in Salinas early this week preparing the indices to the Great Register for the use of the local election officers.

For the three precincts in which registrations were taken in Carmel, 623 names were enrolled up to last Saturday. About 75 of these were for Point Lobos precinct, all outside the corporate limits of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Speculation as to the outcome of the city election is the leading indoor and outdoor sport these days. Some have it that the pro-zoners will win, but that the anti-zoners will capture the trustees —and vice versa.

YATES' STATEMENT OF PUBLIC POLICY

Carmel, Calif., April 11, 1924

As a candidate for Trustee at the coming election in Carmel. I have been asked to give my views on the following matters:

ZONING — I am in favor of Zoning, because in no other way can we protect our homes and retain the many natural advantages and our unique environment.

We have that protection in the present Ordinance No. 55.

To have that protection we must vote YES.

If that ordinance stands, we can, without court action, have it so changed as to suit what the people of Carmel want, just as soon as the Trustees know the wishes of the majority.

My point of view is, therefore, Protection First and Correction Later. This I believe to be the quickest and most practical [illegible] to get eventually the kind of zoning ordinance the majority of our people want.

Those who favor zoning want Protection for all that makes Carmel what it is.

Therefore, if you vote YES, you vote for PROTECTION first and CORRECTION after; we have retained the protection we now have under Ordinance No. 55 by voting Yes.

SEWER—I favor an adequate Sewer System for each district of the city as soon as asked for by the residents of any district, or when public safety demands it. Each section to be so constructed as to become a part of a general system adequate for the entire city, without any material or expensive changes.

CITY AFFAIRS—I favor rigid economy consistent with the needs of our growing city.

TO ALL OTHER MATTERS that may come before the Trustees I will give the same thoughtful consideration as for my personal affairs.

I ask for the votes of all who agree with my views and also for the votes of those who do not agree with my views, but who may be willing to trust my judgment on other matters that may from time to time come before the Board.

Very respectfully submiteed,
Advt C. H. YATES

City Zoning Catechism

Questions asked by citizens regarding the zoning ordinance are here answered by the City Planning Commission and the City Attorney.

Question — Do not the deeds to properties in Carmel contain restrictions to prevent most of the things covered in the Zoning Ordinance?

Answer — The most of the deeds—the Carmel Development Co. — have only one restriction, that against the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Question—What are the chances of beach hotels going up should the zoning ordinance not pass?

Answer—There is an application now in for a building permit for a $250,000 hotel on Ocean avenue, between San Antonio avenue and Scenic road. Another is contemplated in the near future, we understand.

Question—Did the City Planning Commission, when it framed the ordinance, contemplate the exclusion of the small businesses from the residence district?

Answer — It did not. The City Planning Commission believes that such [illegible] shops, outdoor cafes, flower sales, and those crafts closely allied to the arts should have free expansion, and add to the attractiveness and unique character of Carmel. We believe that the ordinance as drafted and passed covers this; and that it permits the renting of rooms or the taking of boarders in any residence. The attorney of the City Planning Commission advises that the ordinance is fairly and properly drawn.

Question—Was the Zoning Ordinance drawn hastily to prevent the securing of a building permit by any one person?

Answer—The Zoning Ordinance has been under consideration for more than a year; has had public hearings, been posted and published in part and in whole, and was most carefully considered for many months. It is directed against no individual, but is for the welfare and benefit of the whole community.

Question—If I own a lot in Zone 1, what advantage does the ordinance afford me?

Answer—Your lot is assured of increased value, in that business buildings may not scatter all over town, but keep to the zone. Your lot, by virtue of its situation, becomes business property.

Question—If I own a lot in Zone 2, what advantages does the ordinance afford me?

Answer — Your lot may be used either for a hotel site, an apartment house, flats or residence purposes. It secures added value as such. And it may not be injured by an adjoining factory or business block.

Question—If I own a lot in Zone 3, what advantages does the ordinance afford me?

Answer — Your lot is a home site and is protected against unsuitable surroundings, against crowding, and the incursion of business. The ordinance tends to preserve the natural beauties of brush, flowers and trees.

SUSAN PORTER, Secretary.
HELEN W. PARKES

I am of the opinion that the foregoing replies are a proper interpretation of the zoning ordinance.
ARGYLL CAMPBELL, City Attorney.

Comedian Jolson's "California" Song

Many songs have been based on the sun-bathed charms of California, and there are surely few places in the western world more worthy of being sung in song. It is not astonishing, therefore, that no less a popular stage personage than Al Jolson should have found it impossible to resist the urge. Here he is, then, as part author of a genuine new song hit whose happy title is "California, Here I come."

There is something peculiarly significant about that title, too. Al Jolson, perhaps the most popular singer and comedian in the country, is starring in his big musical success, "Bombo." In this he is singing "California, Here I Come," as the big song feature, and every day he and his merry show draw nearer to the coast. Thus the title possesses right now an added spice and appropriateness. Al Jolson is assured of a royal welcome on his western tour, for besides everything else, California is where he hails from.

COUNTRY NEWSPAPER AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION

Arthur Brisbane says, "Each of five Paris newspapers has a million or more circulation because all parts of France look to Paris for news, while in this country only one daily circulates a million copies because the Americans feel the real newspaper is one in their own neighborhood. That is good for America."

The manufacturer has said on many occasions that no country as large as the United States could ever have been developed with all its people, in every nook and corner, fully informed on local, state and national questions without the 14,000 country daily and weekly newspapers which give immediate information to rural communities on all [illegible].

BENEFITS FROM EXCAVATIONS IN VALLEY OF KINGS

New light on the sources of the Bible is eagerly sought by critics and commentators the world over. The startling discoveries in the Valley of the Kings have so occupied public attention that some less vivid, but perhaps more important, have escaped general notice. From Glasgow, Scotland, comes the account of the discovery of a Biblical manuscript in Egypt which may be of the greatest importance.

According to this account about 100 miles north of Tut-ankh-Amen's tomb in the Valley of the Kings at Luxor lies the once important village of Quau-el-Kebir on the right side of the Nile. Here last winter members of the British School of Archaeology were excavating among the rubbish heaps, and one day a broken earthenware jar was dug up. One of them saw a sand-colored rag in the jar, which proved to be a bag, and in the bag were inscribed papyrus leaves. Further examination showed that the writing was in Coptic characters and scriptural. They were sent to England to Sir Flinders Petrie, the director of the School of Archaeology in Egypt. Soon seeing the word "Lazarus" and other Biblical words, he knew that the manuscript was one of the gospels and not merely an old Coptic sermon. It turned out to be the Gospel of John.

Our zoning ordinance was passed over a protest of three hundred and sixty-seven voters and property owners of Carmel, and of these more were eligible to vote than voted at the last municipal election.

It has been stated in the zoning catechism of last week that these signers had not at that time seen the ordinance, and could not know its terms, for it had not then been published. Copies of the ordinance were made immediately after its first reading, on the second of January, and for days before the ordinance was passed by the trustees, the people of Carmel were reading it hourly and signing the protest. It is to be remembered that at that time, the trustees were asked to amend this ordinance, and that the people demanded the referendum as their last redress against this unfair, discriminatory and unconstitutional ordinance. The planning commission stated that the Los Angeles decision did not affect the Carmel ordinance as the Los Angeles ordinance was not followed in drawing up this one. It is possibly true that no other ordinance presents the same disadvantages that appear in Ordinance 55, but this does not do away with the fact that it is very much affected by the Los Angeles decision; no less an authority than Attorney C. F. Lacey of Salinas declares the ordinances to be "precisely alike" so far as the decision is concerned.

Mr. Beardsley, in closing his article, exclaims: "You have fought in a small way, now fight in a big one." At this point we are agreed.

Fight for your rights as citizens, property holders, workers and homemakers of Carmel, and do not leave these rights to be juggled with in the dim future by a lot of clumsy and ineffective amendments. For, as Mr. Beardsley so aptly remarks, "We all have our self-interest in these matters. Let us decide what is best for us and go to it."

And remember that any litigation engaged in by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is ours to pay for when the property-holder wins; also, that the courts favor the owner in most zoning cases and frown upon all unreasonable restriction and unnecessary damage to property rights.

We Thank You

The generous answer to the call for funds and for members to the Carmel Humane Society has been most encouraging to the ladies in charge, and they desire to thank all for their donations.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Francis Hanique the sign was donated, and with one painted by Miss Helena Couger, and the donation of the store for the week by Mrs. W. T. Dummage, the ladies of the society feel that they have been most generously treated.

Pine Cone's Log of Literature & Art

Reams of Twaddle

W. L. George, who writes reams and reams of twaddle about life and women and women and life—and a few men, and who is known as a "realist," recently posed with his orange Persian cat for a picture. The cat is handsome, which isn't saying anything against Mr. George's literary ability. Only—

He takes issue with Gilbert Frankau, who calls the realists "barnyard novelists." He even goes so far as to say that if he must choose, he will enlist under the "barnyard flag with a crowing cock for an emblem." That's all right for W. L. George; but there are realists and realists. Sheila Kaye-Smith is one of them—of a different kind. Her "End of the House of Allard" is realism that is "distinction with a difference." A picture of what has been happening in England since the war. Powerful drama of youth's fight against sacrificing everything for the traditions of ancient names and "the land." Good book. Splendidly written. As satisfying as a home-cooked dinner—when you're really hungry.—San Jose News.

Offensive Magazines Barred

War is to be waged on objectionable magazines by the Ontario (Canada) Women's Liberal Association. In the report submitted to the association by the committee on objectionable literature recently it states that 140 various periodicals are imported to Canada monthly. Many specialized in pictured and printed indecency, and a larger percentage is of low moral tone. The circulation of 10 magazines banned last year was estimated at 130,000 copies per month in Canada.

The efforts of the committee of this organization, with the aid of other organizations, have resulted in the banning of 17 offensive magazines by the Department of Customs and Excise.

May Prove Art Genius

Was Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's father, Charles Doyle, an unrecognized artistic genius? Londoners will have an opportunity to judge from a collection of his works being shown at the Brook Street Galleries. The exhibition is called "The Humorous and the Terrible."

Charles Doyle worked most of his life in an Edinburgh government office and his paintings, done in his spare time, never had a chance of challenging the verdict of London. His father was John Doyle ("H. B."), the famous caricaturist, and his brother was Richard Doyle, the Punch artist.

GILLETT OUTLINES HIS PLATFORM

Carmel, Calif., April 9, 1924

To the Citizens of Carmel:

Being a candidate for city trustee, I here set forth the principals for which I stand in our city's progress, in the coming four years:

Economic administration in the city's business affairs

Value received for the taxpayers' money.

Consideration of majority petitions, and on divided questions by referendum.

Employment of our people in constructive work.

Better general sanitation in city.

Preservation of the natural beauty of Carmel.

Opposed to commercializing Carmel beach.

Construction of new sewer laterals in districts where most needed in city, under the Acts of 1911 and 1915.

General improvement of the streets as city's finance will permit.

Against large bonding of the city.

The zoning question will be decided by the majority vote of the citizens of Carmel at the coming election.

Most Respectfully,
R. F. GILLETT
